Hughes Movement Is Deemed to Be Doom of 3d Termers' Hope of Getting Nomination

ALREADY THEY TALK OF SOME OTHER MAN

Meantime Progressives
May Be Sundered by Disensions in Their Own Battle Council

CHICAGO, June 3.—Complete confidence that they can nominate Associate Justice Charles E. Hughes over Colonel Roosevelt, if they so desire, is the result of the arrival here and exchange of views between most of the big Republican leaders. These leaders have no doubt of their power to beat Roosevelt with Hughes.

That the "Colonel's" forces realize this is interpreted from the conciliatory statements of George W. Perkins, "angel" for the Progressives in 1912, issued here yesterday. Perkins said that if a compromise between the two parties was effected the Republicans would not necessarily have to take Roosevelt.

It is plain that the attacks of the Roosevelt supporters upon the "Silent candidate" have brought worry to the leaders of the Progressive party who are in a consolidatory frame of mind. Hence, they have intimated that Hughes will be acceptable to them.

THEIR OWN CHOICE

Whether the Republican leaders opposed to the Colonel actually will throw their strength to Hughes on the first or second ballot is a question yet to be determined. Confident that they will be able to prevent the nomination of the Colonel by turning to Hughes at any time, they will likely try the situation out and see what the "favorite sons" show up.

In other words, the men who have been the dominating factors in the last two Republican conventions intend to consider the possibility of naming some other candidate who is more to their liking.

Personally they would prefer Elihu Root, and some of them also look with favor upon ex-Senator Theodore Burton of Ohio, Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana and Governor McCall of Massachusetts.

PROBABILITY OF ELECTION. The next ten days will be devoted by the Republican leaders to ascertaining from the incoming delegates whether Root, or any of the other candidates except Justices Hughes and Colonel Roosevelt, could be elected over President Wilson, and also whether it will be possible to obtain Progressive endorsement for these men.

If the report is unfavorable, as now seems likely, the big leaders are apt to throw their influence in the direction of Justice Hughes and a certain means of preventing a scramble in the convention with the possibility of the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt.

CRAKE AND PENROSE. The line of action to be followed became apparent soon after the arrival in Chicago of Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania and Ex-Senator Governor Murray Crane of Massachusetts, who are acknowledged the most important political factors in the present convention.

WALKS 11,500
MILES; WILL RECEIVE $8000

Two-Year Trip Ended; Finished by Hiker in Oakland

Completing an 11,500-mile walk through American cities for an $8000 purse posted by Cleveland, Ohio, clubs, F. L. Balkam, a young Welsh-American, arrived in Oakland today and obtained the official seal of the city in his little note book.

WALKS TWO YEARS.

Balkam walked 11,500 miles in two years, four months and twenty-nine days, starting July 4, 1914.

The itinerary included led through the states between the Alleghenies and the Mississippi; from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, then through the states of the eastern seaboard, from Florida to New England, then across the continent.

Balkam wore out fifty-four pairs of shoes on the journey.

He is 29 years old and when he started he weighed only 118 pounds.

He has cracked one joke more than 2200 times and has laughed at himself every time. Lots of other people have laughed at it.

This is the 3200-time jest: Balkam has a little hard grip about eight inches in length. He has carried it from Cleveland. He gazed proudly upon it and says:

"I carry all my clothes in that. Fifty-four pieces."

The beholder, who is being prepared for a laugh, looks at the grip in wonderment.

"What, in that little thing?" he exclaims in wonderment.

EARNED $8000.

"Yes, a pack of cards and a pair of socks," explains Balkam blandly. Then he waits for the grin of comprehension. Sometimes he waits a long time and sometimes it comes right away. But it comes almost every time, because he is patient. He has a big laugh all ready to help out and he adds:

"I left Cleveland with this smile and it hasn't worn off yet."

In San Francisco Balkam will have transportation waiting for him to take him home. When he gets home there will be a bank account of $8000 in his name.

Balkam represented the Cleveland Athletic Club in the hike. At every post office he passed on the way he sent a post card home. He also sent copies of the newspapers of the towns through which he walked, with accounts of his journey.

He was allowed one haircut and four shaves during the walk. When he got the haircut about the middle of his journey the barber got eighteen inches of auburn locks. He has a fine flaxen beard which he will lose in San Francisco.

Balkam's best time in one stretch was 60 miles in 22 hours. If he has not money enough to stop at a hotel he keeps on walking and selling post cards till he has, sleeping by the road and lighting a lonely fire to keep himself warm.

DYE SECRET UNLOCKED BY GERMAN

Abe Ruef Finds Chemist in San Francisco With Process

Big Discovery May Mean
Fall of Monopoly of Teutons

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—A noteworthy discovery by an obscure chemist, backed by Abraham Ruef which, if it proves the merit claimed for it, will bring a mammoth industry to California, was announced this morning and confirmed a process for the manufacture of certain dyes. Louis Elliken, a young German, 22, who was employed up to three years ago in the Bierbier, is the man who has made the wonderful discovery and it was in a single housekeeping room in a building at 1349 Jones street, where his experiments were first successful, and where he succeeded in convincing Ruef of the merits of his claim.

The former political boss furnished the money for the establishment of a laboratory at 507 Mission street, where Elliken's efforts have been crowned with such great success that he now claims he can manufacture at from $5 to $6 cents a pound the identical dyes which are now bringing $90 a pound on the Atlantic seaboard.

UNLOCKED SECRET.

Elliken believes that he has either discovered a new process for the making of fast dyes for coloring cloth and food stuffs or else that he has rediscovered the German processes long held secret.

Ruef, who, up to this time, has furnished the money for the promoting of the inventive genius and aptitude for research on the part of Elliken, declared this morning that the discovery was but one of a number of which he is prepared to give to the public.

"Discoveries have recently been made in California that are worth hundreds of millions to the United States government," said Ruef. "This one of aniline dyes was timely, by reason of the scarcity of dyes in this country, but since I have opened my office for the exploitation of ideas I have learned of many important inventions and I believe the United States government should take hold of all of them. That is my aim to interest the government and I know that the announcements I have to make are of such tremendous importance that they cannot but attract the attention of the whole country."

Following soon after the publicity given to Ruef's non-alcoholic wine, the story of the discovery of the aniline dyes is a peculiarly interesting one. Elliken visited Ruef's office and demanded that the former boss proceed with him to his laboratory. Ruef found a single living room in a maze of confusion with a 15-month-old boy playing about the floor and wife and mother at work near her.

Even then Elliken informed him of his claim to the discovery of the process for making the dyes and for four weeks the work has been being brought to a head in the new laboratory.

EIGHTEEN COLORS.

The result produced has given Elliken the eighteenth basic colors from which combinations of different shades may be made by a mixture and combination. The dyes are manufactured from a coal-tar base and benzene, and petroleum are used in their manufacture. They are in three forms—powder, crystals and paste—and are soluble in water. It is stated that the raw material for their making can all be produced in California and if the proper capital can be interested California can be as important as Germany, whose dye factories employ 2000 to 15,000 each.

Elliken declares that he can produce the same dyes as the well known Azo group, which are manufactured almost exclusively in Germany, but with one or two factories operating in France.

Delegates Leave to Plaudits of Big Throng Band Plays as Train Pulls Out for the East

Oakland Procession Is Novel Feature
of Trip

WHILE the community cheered and applauded, and the band played, and the flag of the nation fluttered from every auto top in the line of parade, the two national Republican delegates-elect, Joseph F. Carlson and Peter J. Crosby, together with Alternates Joseph R. Knowland and Dr. O. D. Hamlin, yesterday were sentent through the business district of the city and to the Sixteenth-street depot, where the overland Republican convention special train to Chicago waited the travelers. Some twenty-five cars, carrying members of the Republican county central committee, members of the Alameda county Women's Republican Club, and members of the Republican state central committee, were in line behind an elaborately decorated machine in which were seated the delegates and alternates.

PROCESSION DOWNTOWN.

The honorary escort was led by a detail of police, the band and a car, in which was seated Mayor John L. Davie and party. The procession moved from Nineteenth and Broadway across to San Pablo, down to Clay street to Fourteenth. It then moved over to Washington and down to Eighth, over to Broadway, back to Sixteenth, and then to the depot. At all points the delegates were applauded with much enthusiasm.

When the escort arrived at the depot a large crowd had gathered to greet the party representatives. Here the band took a position in the center of the large waiting vestibule and afforded a concert of several numbers while friends and party enthusiasts greeted the delegates. At exactly 2:30 o'clock the long overland special drew into the yard-way, and this was a sign for loud cheering and applause as the rear platform of the observation car, decorated with the banner of the California delegation and the national colors, stopped opposite the depot.

MEESLING TALKS.

While Delegate Francis V. Keeling briefly addressed the gathering on the significance of the national convention moving picture machines clicked and cameras snapped. Keeling was followed by Delegate John Scott of Los Angeles and Delegate Peter J. Crosby of this county. Each pledged himself and the delegation to perform the work of the convention in the interests of the state and nation.

Just before the train moved north on its long trip over the Rockies to the convention city, Marion Woolsey, standing on the coupling of the observation car, sang "I Love You California." The patriotic numbers played by the band and the cheering of the crowd contributed to make the occasion an enthusiastic Republican send-off.

The affair was arranged under the auspices of the county committee and Chairman Clinton C. Dodge. Committee-man of the parade committee and Harry William marshal.

Gives Public Thanks

The Alameda County Republican Central Committee expresses its sincere thanks to the many loyal Republicans who united with us yesterday in the grand farewell and send-off to our delegates from this congressional district and in the splendid demonstration for the entire delegation at the special train on its departure for Chicago. Let us keep alive this spirit of loyalty and enthusiasm until the victory is won in November next.

Is Crime Hereditary? What Is Cure? Chief Vollmer Answers Questions Notable Article in Sunday Tribune

There is little change in the situation at nearby ports.

Local Waterfront Feels Strike Effect

More than 100 men—stevedores, yard clerks and helpers, mill hands and others—have gone out on strike in the local lumber yards in sympathy with the striking longshoremen in all Pacific coast ports. As a result the lumber handling facilities in half a dozen Oakland yards are more or less crippled today, although the strike is not so general as to seriously hamper the continuance of business.

Labor union officials claim that a total of eighty-eight men are on strike at the yards of the Sunset Lumber Company, one of the largest concerns on this side of the bay. This is denied by company officials, who place the number at twenty-four, twelve of this number being mill hands, eight carpenters and four teamsters. Half of them, say the company officials, are union men and the other half non-union. The company officials claim to pay the union wage scale.

J. M. Steiner, business agent of Carpenters' Union No. 550, of Oakland, claims that fifty non-union carpenters, eighteen union carpenters and fifteen union teamsters have walked out at these yards. The non-union men, according to Steiner, quit out of sympathy with the union men.

Officials of the E. K. Wood Lumber Company claim that not more than thirty of their employees have joined the strike. They say that no demands were made by the strikers before leaving, and that the walkout appears to be merely a supporting or sympathetic movement. The company's work is being continued by the reduced force.

Officers of the Panama Lumber and Mill Company said they did not know how many of their lumber handlers had walked out, saying, however, that the work of the plant had not been hampered by the strike. None of the mill hands joined the strike at this plant, which does mill work for the most part, rather than a large wholesale lumber business.

HOGAN MEETS DEMAND.

More than 100 strikers who went out in the Hogan and Hunter lumber companies yards have returned to work on the agreement of Hugh Hogan to meet the strikers' demands for a wage increase. Both these yards are, today working at their full capacity.

The strike situation is quiet along the entire waterfront. There is little or no change in the situation along the Oakland wharves. Few ships are in port with cargo. What lumber carriers there are in the harbor are stevedored by their own crews, who are working under a different union agreement than are the striking leading off from the Embarcadero.

If so, what should society do to wipe out its stain?

No greater problem confronts civilization than this. In all the nation there is no more serious-minded or more competent a student of the problem than August Vollmer, chief of police of Berkeley. So thorough is his understanding and so wide his experience that he has been chosen from among all the practical criminologists of the nation to fill a chair at the University of California summer session, where for the first time in an American university a clinical and lecture course will be given treating of the tendencies and nature of criminals and of the methods of lessening or eradicating crime.

Much has been written of Chief Vollmer's work; but not until now has given, in popular fashion, the fruits of his years of attentive study and long, practical experience.

He has written for the Sunday magazine of The OAKLAND TRIBUNE his own philosophy of the theory and problem of crime. It is Chief Vollmer's own "story," given for the first time in his own way.

His article ranks as one of the notable contributions to sociological literature. He tells concisely and exactly what crime is, regarded from a scientific point of view, and what must be done in order to cure it. He finds that society has a duty to the criminal.

As a sociological student he is familiar with the writings of the German, French and Italian criminologists. Lombroso, the great Italian theorist, is one of his handbook. He knows the methods that have proved most effective in restricting crime; and he seems to know how crime can be oppressed by human society.

He offers, furthermore, a definite and practical method for the control of crime. What that method may be may be read in the Sunday magazine of The OAKLAND TRIBUNE tomorrow.

The article is illustrated with clinical pictures, which were arranged by Dr. Jau Don Ball of Oakland, the expert whom Chief Vollmer personally chose to assist him in the preparation of this original exposition of his views.

The Sunday magazine will contain other features of unusual interest.

A former minister writes an amusing and whimsical article on "Weddings and Wedding Fees."

It is one of the best contributions of its kind ever made to a Sunday paper.

It is not generally known that Oakland ranks high among states in the care of animals. And there are other features.

Every incoming steamer is watched and a guard maintained while it lies at the dock and every wharf is kept under surveillance. A special detail of corporals and sergeants has also been made.

Federal mediation seemed likely today to help solve the longshoremen's strike situation here. Leaders of the striking river boatmen and the employers both signified their willingness to submit their differences to the department of labor in Washington, at the suggestion of Harris Weinstock, state market director.

Efforts to settle the major strike, however—that of the riggers and stevedores working on steaming vessels—were still unsuccessful today.

QUIET IN SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Rumor that the attempt to work non-union men as stevedores on board the vessels on which strikes have been declared might cause trouble led Chief of Police White this morning to send reserves to the Harbor police station. So far not a blow has been struck since the strike was declared Thursday morning, but the possibility of trouble is the fact that there are several miles of track to be patrolled led to a tripling of the number of officers on duty. Captain Dean Matheson has doubled his own waterfront patrol and, with the addition of the reserves from outside companies, has on duty some two score men on the wharves and streets leading off from the Embarcadero.

HOGAN MEETS DEMAND.

More than 100 strikers who went out in the Hogan and Hunter lumber companies yards have returned to work on the agreement of Hugh Hogan to meet the strikers' demands for a wage increase. Both these yards are, today working at their full capacity.

SPLIT IN MOOSE PARTY IS LIKELY

on the ground long before a proposal had been advanced for a get-together conference attended by representatives of all the candidates. The idea of such a conference is said to have originated with ex-Senator Crane, his purpose being to insure united party support for the strongest men when this strength develops in the convention.

HARMONY ADVISABLE.

Harmless understandings of this character would prevent a scramble in the convention which might develop unexpected situations, and leave many scars and much hard feeling.

It is understood that the representatives of all the candidates—fourteen of them—have consented to take part in this conference, which probably will be held Sunday. An agreement reached in this conference will not, of course, affect the early balloting.

Colonel Roosevelt will not be represented in this conference and Justice Hughes will not have any representative present, although his friends undoubtedly will look out for his interests in an informal manner.

While the Republican leaders were giving evidence of a get-together spirit and a desire for harmony, some of the more radical Progressives were showing serious signs of kicking over the traces.

PROGRESSIVES MAY SPLIT.

A small wedge of dissension showed today in the Progressive ranks. The radical Progressives, of the type of Governor Hiram Johnson of California, want the Progressives to meet on Wednesday and name their candidate, which, of course, would be T. R., within an hour or so. Then they would sit back and wait. The conciliatory group of Progressive, on the other hand, are willing to wait until the Republicans nominate—even if this takes until Friday or Saturday—before having the convention in the Auditorium choose a standard-bearer.

They hold the third ballot before the regular delegates have left the Progressive ranks sat.

In all the pre-convention juggling, the one definite plan evolved so far by the Republicans as the last line of defense against a stampede for Roosevelt, is a sudden adjournment after one or two ballots. It looks now as though the nomination oratory will be spilled on Friday. The first roll call on a presidential nominee will come immediately afterward. If T. R. and Hughes show big at first and if either grows perceptibly in two or three ballots, Murray Crane is expected to suggest an adjournment. Then in the wane of the night the final effort will be made to agree on the roll call next day.

WEEK'S DOOM GROWS.

Reports today that the Progressives had served a virtual ultimatum that they would not accept Hughes, since Roosevelt had made the listless and set the pace, served to accelerate perceptibly the Welsh boom. His supporters, who originally claimed 175 votes on the first ballot, were asserting 175 today—and more on the way.

Boomers for the other favorite sons were struck with the same optimism. Five professional gladhanderly on duty at the Root headquarters positively radiated enthusiasm today.

A Republiean lieutenant, close to the front of the interaction, was authority today for the "slope" that the big ones in the convention probably would not even get to, a tentative agreement before Tuesday.

The optimism of a month ago—that anybody the Republicans nominated could win in November—has been altered considerably in the threshing out of opinions by men from all over the country now assembling here. The old guard has been three years on the sidelines now; sometime within the next four years the European war will cease and there will come America's biggest business opportunity—therefore, the old guard wants to win. It dislikes Roosevelt. It is interested in the Hugoites and their anti-organization stand in New York. Hiram Root, but isn't sure he could win in the West, and with more or less favor regards Fairbanks, Weeks, Barton and other favorite sons.

CONCLUDING SPIRIT.

The adage about politics and strange bedfellows was never more strikingly illustrated than the super-peacemaking of the greeting, the Chesterfieldian correctness of manners in statements and the entire good-fellowship now imbuing such individuals as four years ago, at this time were growing with fury at each other's throats, yelling their rage and other epithets. Penrose of Pennsylvania, whom Roosevelt defeated during the campaign of 1912, is very amiable, juggling on his cap; nobody has yet heard a harsh word from George W. Perkins; even "lim" Watson, chairman of the 1912 model steam roller, isn't using the line of invective that made him famous as whip of the United States House of Representatives. William Barnes of New York is the exception. It isn't safe to mention the name of Theodore Roosevelt in the presence of the New York leader. Besides, he is ill with indigestion.

A former minister writes an amusing and whimsical article on "Weddings and Wedding Fees."

from the Tipperary.
All were lost aboard the Indefatigable and the Black Prince. The port commander holds out no hope for other survivors.

Estimates of the tonnage destroyed place at 132,000 tons on the British end and 23,000 on the German.

It is estimated that the German losses were at least between 2000 and 3000 men. No attempt is made here to minimize the seriousness of the British losses in ships and men and that according to present information the German fleet had the best of the action.

The London Evening News states that Vice-Admiral Sir David Beatty, who was in command of the battle cruiser squadron, was not harmed.

Rear Admiral Horace Lambert Alexander Hood was the second son of the fourth Viscount Hood and was born October 2, 1870. He was made a commander in 1890 and served in the Soudan expedition in 1897. He became a captain in 1902 and a rear admiral in 1911. He was awarded the distinguished order in 1913, when he was serving in the Somaliland expedition. In 1912 he was A. D. C. to the king.

Rear Admiral Sir Robert Keith Arbuthnot was born March 23, 1854, and entered the navy in 1877. He was made commander in 1897; captain in 1902 and rear admiral in 1912. Known losses announced did not include mention of about ten destroyers, each carrying a crew of 100 men, which were lost. This would increase the death toll to 1000, although it was stated "a few survivors" of the Tipperary have been picked up.

London Stunned By First Shock, Is Recovering Courage

LONDON, June 3.—The British public, who retired last night east down by the first news of the North Sea battle as contained in the earlier British and German reports, took some comfort from the later British report published in the morning panes. This report decreased the British losses in destroyers from eleven to eight, and shows the losses of the Germans were much greater than was at first estimated.

According to this latest account of the great naval engagement the German losses include two battleships, one battle cruiser, one light cruiser and six destroyers sunk, two battle cruisers damaged and three battle ships hit. Naval writers also point out that the German fleet retired as soon as the main British fleet appeared on the zone, so that there is no question about the superiority of sea power remaining in British hands. The loss of British ships is, of course, admittedly serious, while the loss in officers and men has cast a gloom over the whole country.

In the face of the heavy losses admittedly suffered by the British, England stands grimly determined and confident in the fleet remains unshaken.

ENGLAND SEE HOPE.

In clubs, government offices and from men in every walk of life comes the expression that while the British suffered the greater losses the encounter need not be regarded as a defeat, as the Germans were forced to flee so soon as the full force of England's grand fleet could be brought into action.

Facing a superior force, the light cruisers, battle cruisers and destroyers fought gallantly, disposing of ships of their own class despite the low visibility favoring the Germans.

The inference is drawn that the greatest execution was done by the German battleships, which were in action from the start, but that once their equals in armament drew near they retreated.

BRITISH OUTNUMBERED.

With reports of these additional losses also came despatches telling how bodies of hundreds of British and German sailors were seen floating in the water near the scene of the engagement by neutral ships which arrived during Wednesday and Thursday.

Unofficial details of the fight drifting in from various points thrilled all England. One Holland despatch indicated that the German fleet swooped down on the smaller vessels of the British fleet at the opening of the engagement. The British were hopelessly outnumbered until the grand fleet appeared and with thousands of guns roaring and hurling tons of shells against the German armada, the kaiser's vessels were forced to retreat.

The steamer Thames, arriving at The Hook of Holland, reported picking up eleven survivors of the crew of the German cruiser Frauenlob. They were floating on rafts. The Frauenlob, the survivors said, was sunk by a British torpedo. The torpedo struck smugly in the engine room and the crew immediately jumped overboard. Stories of the Frauenlob's survivors indicate that 354 of her crew perished.

From Copenhagen and Dutch ports came despatches today bringing fragmentary details of the terrific fight. Fishermen arriving off Ostbiergs report

Warspite Sunk, Germans Insist

Vice-Admiral Hebbinghaus Makes Report

BERLIN, June 3.—At least thirty-four great British battleships were engaged in the fight with the German squadron off Skagerrak.

This was announced today in a communication from Vice-Admiral Hebbinghaus. The report of Admiral Hebbinghaus, read in the Reichstag, declared:

"On the afternoon of May 31 part of our fleet engaged in combat with a very superior British fleet of at least thirty-four modern great battleships.

"The battle went on until 9 p. m., when it became dark, and during the night a series of single cruiser and torpedo boat attacks took place.

"The result of these connected engagements is a very satisfactory success of our fleet against a much stronger adversary."

"It was ascertained that the losses of the British, which were partly confirmed by rescued British sailors, are the Warspite, Indefatigable and Queen Mary, two armored cruisers of the Achilles type, one small cruiser and destroyer flagships Turbulent, Nestor and Alcator, and further, nine or ten destroyers, of which our battleship Westfalen alone sank six during the night attacks."

The report continued that the German losses included the Pommern and Weissenburg and several torpedo boats.

Admiral Hebbinghaus mentioned that the cruiser Frauenlob was seen by a torpedo boat to be heeling during the night, so that she must be considered lost. The crews and materials of the fleet proved excellent.

The navy is in brilliant spirits, the admiral reported.

passing through fields of bodies of both British and German sailors.

With fifteen British ships now reported destroyed, the total losses are expected to mount into the thousands. No estimates of casualties has been made by the admiralty, however, and it probably will be days before any definitely accurate estimate can be made.

From early reports it is obvious that survivors have been landed at a dozen different ports. Dutch despatches reported the landing at Ymuiden of six officers and twelve members of the crew of the German cruiser Milne. This ship was not reported destroyed in either the German or British admiralty statements. The survivors declared, however, that the Milne was rammed by another German ship, which rescued the remainder of her crew. British survivors are also said to be en route here aboard a trawler.

Full Loss of Life Will Not Be Known for Many Days

LONDON, June 3.—The admiralty this afternoon stated that the full loss of life is unknown in cases where ships exploded owing to torpedoes or gun fire.

The British losses in men was very large owing to the fact that three battle cruisers blew up from interior explosions," an admiralty statement said. The statement added:

"Submarines took part on both sides. The British ship Marlborough got into a nest of submarine torpedoes. She dodged three of them, but was hit by a fourth, but despite the damage inflicted the Marlborough was able to make port.

CALL FOR HELP.

"Admiral Beatty's call for help was sent to the British main fleet and brought Admiral Jellicoe and an unknown number of British battleships to the scene.

"The main battle then ensued, with British battleships in direct engagements with German battleships, dreadnaught against dreadnaught. During this part of the battle the Germans lost two dreadnaughts and the British none.

"When Admiral Beatty endeavored to cut off the Germans from retreat he discovered the fleet of German battleships on his left, but that they had been hiding behind German battleships in a mist.

"Admiral Beatty was then forced to retrace his course to the open sea. Thus the situation developed, with the German battleships and battle cruisers fighting against British battle cruisers.

"At this stage of the battle the British were outnumbered by the Germans. The Germans had no surprises.

"There were no 17-inch guns in evidence.

"There was only one Zeppelin, being the L-24, and this was injured and retired.

LONG RANGE FIRING.

"Most of the firing was at a range of five or six miles.

"Thus the four phases were completed, first, of Admiral Beatty's attempt to cut off the Germans; second, his forced retirement to the open sea by interference of the German battleships when the British were outnumbered for a time; third, the arrival of the main British fleet under Admiral Jellicoe when it became a dreadnaught against dreadnaught fight; and, fourth, retirement of the German forces in the face of the British attack."

That only a portion of the British fleet met the entire German fleet and forced it to retire to its harbor is the official version and official response to whatever idea neutrals may have of the result of the battle.

Whatever opinions to the contrary that may be entertained are regarded here as being due to the poor handling of the first reports of the engagement by the British and the "lies of the Germans," it was declared at the admiralty.

While retreating the Germans sowed mines into which the British cruisers then forced German destroyers, causing heavy losses among the enemy ships from their own mines.

Three More British Destroyers Lost

LONDON, June 3.—Sinking of three more British destroyers in Wednesday's battle was reported today. In addition to the Shark, which earlier unofficial reports declared had been sunk, word was received this afternoon of the destruction of the Nomad and Nestor.

MASTERY OF SEA BROKEN, SAYS BERLIN

All Germany Celebrating Victory of War Fleet

Answer to British Sarcasm, Assert Naval Writers

BERLIN, June 3.—England's claim to the mastery of the sea is broken. This is the German view resulting from the victory of the fleet of Vice-Admiral Scheer, which has given the Kaiser's name as brilliant a tradition as has been written on the pages of any naval power.

Flugs were displayed everywhere today in celebration of the clash with the British high seas fleet and the German success. Schools were dismissed, special services of celebration and thanksgiving were called and German enthusiasm was aroused as at no time since the Kaiser's army was drawing near Paris early in the war.

Although no official expression was obtainable, it was evident that the sea victory is regarded here as another step toward a possible early peace.

Defeat of the British fleet was the first time it fell German naval power, the fact that Germany's naval territory is clear of the enemy; that Belgium and Northern France are successfully held, while the French and British lines have remained stationary for the past year, and the crown prince is hammering at the gates of Verdun.

These points were cited as answers to the allied demands that Germany be crushed.

FACED MAJORITY.

"On the enemy's side the Germans faced a majority of the English modern navy.

"The German reconnoitering forces were commanded by Vice-Admiral Hipper.

"These forces entered first into the combat with enemy's battle cruisers and light cruisers about 5 p. m. Later the main bodies of both sides successfully participated in the fight.

"During the day battle German torpedo boats several times came into action successfully, one of them three times. The fight kept on until 9 in the evening.

"During the day battle the English lost the dreadnaught Warspite, the battle cruiser Queen Mary, one armored cruiser, apparently of the Achilles type, and several destroyers.

"During the night both sides made violent attacks by torpedo boats and cruisers, flights of which other hostile losses were victims.

"Among others, the German leading ship annihilated six modern English destroyers.

ENGLISH BRAVERY.

"All German reports emphasize the bravery shown by the British during the fight, which continued almost uninterrupted for twelve hours.

"His majesty's ship Frauenlob must be considered lost. The ship sank, apparently during the night of May 31 and June 1 during a partial engagement.

"Of the German torpedo boats, five have not returned, but a large part of the crews were rescued.

"Although the weather was unfavorable for air reconnoitering during both days of the engagement, naval airships and balloons contributed considerably, by reconnoitering and unit action, to the success of the German high seas forces."

Captain of Danish Steamer Tells of Big Sea Battle

COPENHAGEN, June 3.—The captain of the Danish steamer Næsborg gives the following account of the sea fight:

"When the Næsborg was ninety-five miles west of Cape Hornholm, on the northwest coast of Jutland, a few small British warships appeared, pursued by the German fleet. Suddenly the British warships turned and steamed westward, violently shelled. In a few minutes a large number of British dreadnaughts appeared from the north and west."

"The British then began attacking the German ships, which were reinforced by a large number of ships from the south along the west coast of Jutland. A violent fight commenced. The sky seemed filled with smoke and the sea was in a state of uproar. Shells fell around our steamship, and although we were several miles away,

"Whatever the balance of the loss," says the Daily Telegraph, "we are poorer by precious lives and valuable ships. But let us be on guard against undue pessimism. The outstanding fact is that our battle fleet has not been touched. It remains today in all its magnificent power. It is on that embodiment of might that our fortunes in the last resort depend, and on that our confidence rests to-day as unfalteringly as it did a week ago."

"During the fight the cannonading was so violent that our crew could not stand on deck. We saw several large warships sink, but I am unable to say whether they were British or German."

"At last the German fleet withdrew southward, pursued by the British, while several more British warships appeared coming from the westward. The German fleet was divided into two parts, one of which escaped. The fate of the other fleet I do not know."

NEWS OF THRIVING EAST-BAY CITIES

COUNCIL WRESTLES WITH NEW BUDGET

More Than $800,000 Is Asked by Several Departments for Ensuing Year.

BERKELEY, June 3.—Demands upon the city council for more than $300,000 for the expenses of the different departments for the year beginning with July are under consideration by the finance committee. It is estimated that material paring of estimates will be made on several features before the budget is finally adopted.

The amount is considerably in excess of last year's city budget advance being in the public works and fire departments.

In the former an increase of $35,000 is asked, of which $25,000 is intended for the purchase of a new fire truck and $10,000 for the purchase of a ladder truck.

The fire department asked $50,000 more than last year for the purchase of a ladder truck, automobile and other apparatus.

Following the review of the estimates, made by the council, the council will take up the budget in committee of the whole.

BERKELEY, June 3.—Several hundred graduates from the University of California departed early this afternoon by special train for Kenney Park, the university's adjunct near Fresno, for the first annual meeting of the graduates ever held outside of Berkeley. The meeting will be held at the park this evening, but it is only a portion of the program which will entertain the alumni until tomorrow afternoon.

More than 1200 former students of the university are expected to be present at Kearny Park by noon, the majority coming from the lower San Joaquin Valley, but a large delegation going from here.

The local party will reach the park at 5 p.m. today.

A sight-seeing tour through the university's great vineyards, orchards and farms is to be taken while a barbecue supper is being spread. The annual meeting will be opened with a concert at the Kenney mansion, a band concert and an open air old-fashioned country dance.

Complaining that her husband had told her that he would rather pay her funeral bill than continue to support her, Nettie Lansdale had commenced suit for divorce from Leon E. Lansdale, a minister.

Alice G. McDonald, a butcher on Harrison street, has an affair with the person of Lillian Tamm, a woman who has deposited funds in her name in a bank at Beaumont.

Charging desertion, Doris Cape has commenced suit for divorce from John J. Cape. Plaintiff says that her husband left her six years ago and went to Duxbury, Mass.

That he had been driven from home six weeks after his marriage is the complaint of William E. Williams, 2815 Harrison avenue, Alameda, who today commenced suit for divorce from Minnie Williams. The plaintiff further makes an unusual request in that he asks that his wife pay costs of his action.

The couple were married April 24 and commenced housekeeping in the home of the bride. It was just five days later, the husband says, that his bride told him that she was tired of him. This he says, she repeated frequently until May 23, when she told him that she only wanted him as a visitor.

DR. DUDLEY SMITH MUST PAY ALIMONY

Dr. Dudley A. Smith, a physician, has been divorced by Harriet Miller Smith in a decree granted by Superior Judge T. W. Harris. Mrs. Smith testified that she had been separated from her husband for two years and that he had refused to come to her. She stated that she had a month's alimony.

Mrs. Smith is a sister of Harlan Miller, one of the engineers who have presented plans for bridging San Francisco bay, and of Dewey Miller, San Francisco clubman and business man.

Complaining that her husband had told her that he would rather pay her funeral bill than continue to support her, Nettie Lansdale had commenced suit for divorce from Leon E. Lansdale, a minister.

PANKHURST AID IS SOLDIER DAUGHTER

The interest in the war of Miss John Wickham, secretary to Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, is very personal, as her father is Colonel Henry Wickham, who took one of the first regiments of Yeomanry of the French front. She has been associated with Mrs. Pankhurst in the most spectacular militant demonstrations in London and will appear when the famous suffragette speaks on "Preparedness," a meeting at the American Legion in the Oakland Auditorium at 3 o'clock tomorrow.

The proceeds of this lecture tour are to be used for the benefit of Serbian refugees.

Miss Wickham is the daughter of Lady Ethel Wickham and niece of the Marquis of Huntley. Her uncle has been made Colonel in Chief of an honor corps of Welsh troops organized in acknowledgment of bravery by King George. She is descended from the famous Duchess of Gordon, who recruited the first regiment of Gordon Highlanders some two hundred years ago. Miss Wickham and Mrs. Pankhurst entered the same field.

Of the suffragettes, Miss Wickham says that there are at least 50,000 in one organization. There is an Active Service League co-operating with the Board of Trade. The former is composed entirely of women who are investigating labor problems. In speaking of the usefulness of women in time of war she points out the fact that the suffrage organization has provided women for every form of employment, from nurses to chauffeurs and that one woman has been made a corporal in Belgium.

Suffrage Workers of N. Y. Invade Ball Park

NEW YORK, June 3.—The suffs will prove they are real sports at "Suffrage Day on the Diamond" at the New York Polo Grounds while the Giants and Cincinnati struggle for supremacy before the admiring gaze of thousands of suffrage baseball fans here today.

Twenty-five charming young women in yellow, white and blue will circulate through the crowd dispensing pennants, peanuts and votes-for-women buttons.

Among those who will carry traps suspended from their necks by yellow ribbons are Miss Agnes Morganthau, Miss Beagle Brantley, Miss Clara Greenleaf, Miss Hannah White, Miss Molly Tolman, Miss Eliza Lewi and Miss Elizabeth Seeger.

Last year the suffragists had to ask on bended knees for the privilege of having "Suffrage Day" on the diamond. This year they were cordially invited to return.

The generals who have conducted Suffrage Day are Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse and Mrs. John Blair, assisted by Miss Jane Thompson of Chicago, who has been baking cakes for suffrage in one of Broadway's show windows and selling tickets to her patrons between bites.

The baseball boxes went fast and the following social leaders in society will appear in their front-row boxes: Mrs. Ogdon Mills Reid, Mrs. Charles Tiffany, Mrs. Joseph S. Stevens, Mrs. Charles Noel Edge, Mr. Henry White Cannon, Mrs. John Humphreys Watrous, Mrs. Bernard Gimbel, Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim, Mrs. Arthur Scherzer, Mrs. Sidney Borg, Mrs. Laurent Oppenheimer, Mrs. A. SATURDAY, JUNE 3, 1916.

A GREAT NAVAL BATTLE.

In a war of such unprecedented magnitude and made up of so many titanic events as is the present one, it is difficult to give correct relative value to an individual occurrence, but there can be little doubt that the battle between the British and German naval forces in the North Sea last Wednesday will assume a significance equal to any other single act since hostilities began.

The losses plainly show that a great force was engaged by each side, and that one of the most powerful units of the British forces employed in the blockade against German ports was dealt a serious blow. The physical loss will be filled in immediately, for little impression was made on the whole of England's naval power. But the moral effect will be far reaching, both in England and Germany.

Based upon the admitted losses of both sides and those claimed by the British admiralty to have been inflicted upon the German fleet, the score easily is in Germany's favor. This will have the effect of arousing great enthusiasm among the people of the Central Powers and make them more confident that their governments are in a position to demand favorable terms should peace proposals be discussed. The effect in Great Britain is impossible to foretell. While it is not likely to shake the courage of the English people or disturb notably their faith in the invincibility of the British navy, it will either cause bitter criticism of the government or incite the people to fuller cooperation in the military purposes of the government; perhaps it will do both.

In its physical aspects the fight was by all considerations the greatest naval engagement in history. The British admit the loss of six capital ships and the Germans one. Apparently a dozen smaller vessels were destroyed. The ships sunk totaled at least 150,000 tons and cost to construct and arm not less than ninety million dollars. Over seven thousand men were aboard the ship that went down. No other naval battle ever resulted in such severe damage. The number of war vessels engaged also was greater than in any other battle in history.

Just what tactics or implements were employed to enable the German fleet to inflict such heavy damage upon its adversary and escape with so small a loss will be interesting information for the future. Whether it was superior maneuvering, better discipline, better marksmanship, longer range armament or more destructive explosive projectiles, or a combination of all these, is a subject which should receive the careful attention of our naval experts and the legislative "experts" at Washington.

A CROOKED BILL.

Whatever action the Senate may take on the shipping bill, it should remove the uncertainty that prevails as to the motive of the administration in trying to force the government ownership project upon the country. Its chief sponsor, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, has repeatedly asserted that it is a war emergency measure and that the government will retire from business five years after the end of the war. But we find in the report submitted by the House committee on merchant marine this phrase: "The question resolves itself into this: shall the great commercial interests of the United States be paramount to the interests of the vessel owners who have the monopoly of the coastwise trade, and yet exercise the right to withdraw their vessels from that trade whenever it suits their convenience or profit?"

Making allowance for the false statement of conditions, this comment seems to put a different construction on the government merchant ship enterprise. It brands the assertion that it is intended as a temporary emergency measure as pretense and buncombe.

The clause relating to government ownership needs clarification. It provides that the government, through the fifty-million dollar corporation which it will control, shall go into the shipping business when costs are at the highest and when it is certain to suffer heavy losses. After the operations are carried on for five years following the close of the war the corporation is to be dissolved. The national treasury is to guarantee private stockholders in the corporation against loss, or, in other words, the government is to stand all the losses. The ships which may be owned at the time of dissolution of the corporation are to revert to the Shipping Board. This board is to be a government bureau, and it will retain its authority to "charter, lease or sell" ships. This makes it extremely uncertain whether Mr. McAdoo is scheming to have the government go out of the private shipping business after all. Private industry will still have a government club over its head and will not know when the government is going to strike.

The sensible thing to do is to eliminate the government ownership clause altogether. Shipping interests are not opposed to the creation of a government board to regulate rates of ocean shipping, and the minority party in Congress is willing to vote for the bill if the government is not to be set up in the merchandise business thereby. The McAdoo plan is a sordid money-political scheme, and besides, it is full of tricks, pitfalls and uncertainties. If the bill cannot be drawn in honest form drop it entirely, Senators.

ROBBING THE STATES.

The county auditors of California, in their annual convention in Yreka Thursday, passed a resolution condemning the proposal of the national administration to enact a federal inheritance tax law as a revenue measure. The reasons for their disapproval are set forth in a rather lengthy sentence, with a plethora of commas and semicolons, but in order to give an official prediction of the harm such a law would do this State, we quote a part of the resolution adopted below. A copy of it has been sent to each member of the California delegation in Congress.

The States, and more particularly California, would be done a grievous injury by such legislation; that under the State of California's system of taxation it is essential not only that the State derive revenue from inheritance tax sources, but also that the average annual collections of about $3,000,000 should not be materially reduced without just cause; that the proposed plan of a partial return to the States by the Federal Government, even if 50 per cent, less the cost of collection, would reduce California's revenue from this source to less than $1,500,000 a year; that as a consequence the revenue of the common schools of the State would be imperiled to the extent of $250,000 annually, the sum now given them under the present average revenue; that the teachers' retirement fund, commonly called the teachers' pension fund, which receives 5 per cent of the total inheritance tax collections each year, would suffer a loss of more than half the revenue derived from this source; that the general fund of the State treasury would lose approximately one million dollars annually; that the State cannot spare this revenue and would be forced to obtain it from a higher tax upon corporations or a general property tax upon the people—the people under either plan carrying the additional burden; that the States have developed the inheritance tax system with remarkable success; that they need this revenue, and that the Federal Government, if in need of more revenue, has many sources upon which to draw, far more than have the States, and therefore should not encroach upon the rights and the needs of the States in the matter of inheritance tax revenue."

REPAIRS NEEDED.

Steps should be taken at an early date for the repair of Lakeshore Boulevard. It has been in a miserable condition for two years, except during brief intervals when temporary repairs were made.

Unstable conditions of the ground around the east side of the lake is such that the street has sunk below the level at which it was originally constructed and the foundation has broken up. This circumstances would seem to call for more effective action than merely filling in the numerous holes that form in the surface.

Lake Merritt and its immediate surroundings is not only of benefit to the residents who are fortunate enough to live near them; it is a great advertising asset to the whole city. We recall no other city in this country where there is a large salt water lake in its center. The first place to which visitors inspecting Oakland with a view to locating here is Lake Merritt; it is unfortunate that they should be obliged to drive over one of the worst thoroughfares of the city. It greatly detracts from the influence of our most important show place. The city officials have commendably undertaken to make amends for the long delay in improving the grounds of the Municipal Auditorium, and they should see to it that the other surroundings of our famous park are maintained in a presentable condition at all times.

The export trade of the United States for February and March combined was $812,841,543. If this rate is maintained for the entire year, as is promised, the exports of 1916 will amount to a trifling less than $5,000,000,000. Prior to the outbreak of the European war our exports had never in any twelve months amounted to as much as $2,500,000,000. The largest export year of the United Kingdom was 1913, when the amount was $3,089,353,116. No other country has ever reached this amount. Thus it is seen that we are not only breaking our own records, but are establishing a new world's record in foreign trade.

Secretary Daniels has come out openly in favor of the House naval bill which does not provide for any new dreadnaughts nor for any continuous program of naval construction.

THE WYOMING IDEA.

While we have been discussing the Swiss idea and the Australian idea, we have had right at home the Wyoming idea, well worthy of study and imitation. It is a plan of physical and military training introduced into the public schools. It organizes the boys into competitive cadet units or corps under a system for awarding prizes and recognition in other forms for proficiency. Instruction is given in part during school hours and pupils receive credits for their cadet standing. Girls are also given an auxiliary part. The War Department warmly approves the plan, but adds that "trained youth cannot take the place of trained manhood; youths make imitation, not real soldiers."

With national co-operation and utilization of the material, trained youths may speedily converted into effective defenders.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

BRAINS VS. THE MACHINE

By royal decree Sweden has also begun saving daylight by setting back its clocks. Why is it not practicable to begin reform the other way? Let the clock keep time as it ought to keep it, but by general agreement let stores and business generally open an hour earlier and close an hour earlier and entertain in the evening follow the same plan. Or is civilization so set in its ways that it must be treated as a child and sometimes fooled to the top of its bent?—New York World.

TWO DAYS--THEN TRIBUNE DAY AT IDORA

TO REVISE
NEUTRALITY
LAWS OF U.S.

Would Make Crimes Against It Easily Punishable

War Problems and Mexico Rumpus Being Necessity

WASHINGTON, June 3.—General revision of American neutrality laws was proposed to Congress today in a memorandum submitted by Attorney-General Gregory and concurred by the State Department as a result of the government's experience with problems arising out of the war and of relations with Mexico.

Enactment of eighteen new laws is recommended to combat defects in existing statutes, to cover present omissions of law "for the observance of obligations imperatively imposed by international law upon the United States" and to make crimes against American neutrality punishable under federal laws. At present many such acts do not violate federal criminal law.

Almost every phase of activity in the United States, on behalf of foreign governments which has resulted in federal prosecution under the broad charge of conspiracy, would be made specifically criminal by the proposed legislation. In addition, the powers of the president would be broadened with respect to withholding clearance of suspended vessels, further employment of the land and naval forces to preserve neutrality, imposing a moratorium censorious upon wireless and cable messages to belligerent countries and seizing arms and ammunition about to be exported in violation of an embargo.

The proposed legislation is as follows:

THE LEGISLATION.

1.—A law making it a crime to prevent or attempt to prevent exportation of American goods by threats or violence to persons engaged in the manufacture or exportation of such articles or by damage to the articles, the instrumentalities of their transportation or their place of manufacture.

2.—A law making it a crime to set fire to any vessel engaged in foreign commerce with the United States, or to place bombs or explosives aboard her with intent to injure or destroy the vessel.

3.—A law authorizing the government to forbid the departure from American ports of vessels with supplies believed to be destined for warships or to supply ships of belligerent nations on the high seas.

4.—Under this law collectors of customs would be given the right to inspect foreign vessels in American ports at any time. Attempt to deceive inspectors or to prevent the inspection would be made criminal.

5.—This proposal would broaden the powers of the Secretary of State in requiring information under oath and proof by affidavit of such facts as he deems desirable in applications for passports, would make misstatements in applications for passports punishable as perjury and would make criminal under those fraudulently obtained; transfer or use of passports, and the alteration or forgery of passports issued.

6.—Making criminal the fraudulent use, application or counterfeiting of the seal of any executive department of the government.

CENSOR ACT.

7.—An act amending the rather restricted provisions of the radio act with reference to the powers of the President to censor or prescribe the manner in which wireless messages and also cablegrams shall be transmitted to belligerent countries or ships upon the high seas or otherwise.

8.—A law making it a crime to set foot, participate in or attempt to participate in any naval expedition against a power with which the United States is now at peace.

9.—Authorizing the President to detain or seize arms about to be exported in violation of any embargo.

10.—A law making it a crime for any interned officer, soldier or sailor of a belligerent government to attempt to escape from the United States, and also making it a crime for any one to aid or attempt to aid in the escape or attempted escape.

11.—A law making it a crime to swear falsely to any document intended for use by a foreign government in any dispute or controversy with the United States.

PROTECTS DEFENSES.

12.—This proposal would make it a crime for any government employee to communicate to a foreign government on its agents or to obtain any unlawful information relating to national defense.

13.—A law making it a crime to make or print money within the United States for revolutionists in a country with which the United States is at peace.

14.—A law making it a crime to conspire to destroy or injure property within the United States belonging to any foreign government with which the United States is at peace.

15.—This proposal would make it a crime for any one to assume or pretend to be diplomatic, consular or other official of a foreign government accredited to the United States with intent to defraud such foreign government, or any person.

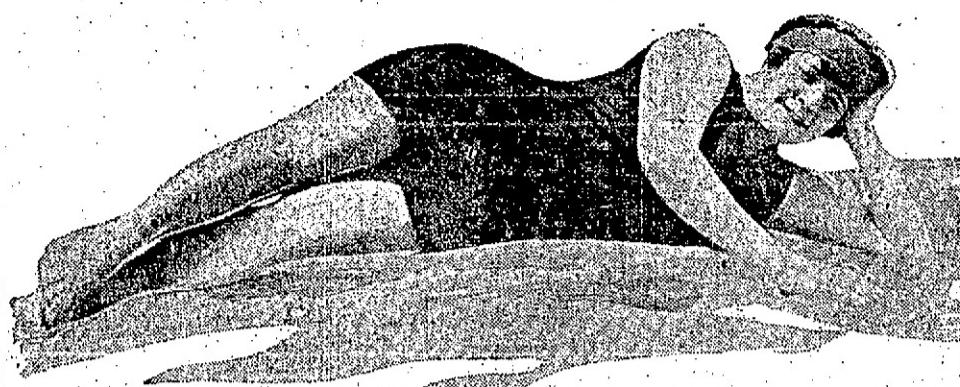

TO DETAIN VESSELS.

16.—A law to prevent alien other than diplomatic or consular officers or attaches from entering the United States as the agents of foreign governments without prior notification and the consent of the government of the United States.

17.—Authorizing the President "to employ the land and naval forces of the United States to detain any vessel in order to prevent the violation of the international obligations of the United States relating to neutrality, or to enforce any or all other obligations imposed upon the United States by the law of nations, by treaties or conventions to which the United States is a party, or by the stipulations of the United States."

18.—A law authorizing the issue of search warrants in the enforcement of criminal laws relating to foreign relations and the observance of neutral obligations, and of other criminal law."

TRIBUNE DAY has been a big celebration in the past. This year it will be the greatest in history, with more joy, more special attractions, more concessions and, from beginning to end, an all-round good time for everyone.

The tickets are on distribution in hundreds of stores about Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda, and may be had by anyone, free of charge.

At the park, the TRIBUNE guests will be admitted on the free tickets, and will then be handed a map and everything necessary for big day at the park. From start to finish, the fun will commence.

SWIMMING RACES.

There will be swimming races in the morning and afternoon, and the children will hold their "Yutie and Esther" contest. In the amphitheater, in the afternoon, the baby show will be held, babies under a year old.

In the evening will be seen one of the big colorful spectacles of the whole day, when the great "Outing Fashion" show will be presented in the amphitheater.

This will be a wonderful display of the new fashions in sports and bathing costumes. There will be the new tennis costumes, riding habits and bathing suits, and dozens of clever novelties. Every feature will be of special design and the very latest on the horizon of fashion.

The big display will be handled by the experts of Kahn's, Capwell's and Marymont & Upright's.

FOR JUDGES.

Dozens of nominations for the judges of this big show have been turned in. Among those named are Joseph E. Calne, J. H. Kleg, W. H. Barry, Mrs. Helen McRitchie, Captain W. J. Retzer, Lewis G. Thompson, Glen George Cummings, C. B. Brooks, Harry Lofer, Harry E. Cornell, George P. Moore, Pitch Ben T. Dillon and K. C. Blitzen.

The judges will be chosen tonight from the blanks, the five receiving the largest number of the blanks to be elected.

The "Yutie and Esther" contest, in which the children will dress as the famous comic supplement characters, will be judged by the TRIBUNE artists, Roy, Rod, and Ket, the cartoonist, who will present the prizes. "Doc," the clever man, original of "Doc Yak," will be there with his old yellow automobile, which will be the reviewing stand for the judges.

The concessions are all being "gone over" by machinists, put-in perfect order for the big day, and extra attendants are being drilled to see that everyone gets all that is coming to him.

Preparedness Enthusiasm Has City by Storm in Great Demonstration.

CHICAGO, June 3.—So great was the enthusiasm with which Chicago rose to the spirit of the preparedness demonstration today that two parades were necessary, one in the day and one at night.

More than 150,000 men and women took part in the parades today, having pledged themselves to do so, rain or shine. The women said that if it rained they would wear their old clothes and would not let their enthusiasm be quenched by fear of a drenching.

The day parade formed this morning in Michigan avenue, south of Van Buren street and marched north on Michigan avenue, the entire route being as follows:

North on Michigan avenue to Randolph street, west on Randolph to Franklin, south on Franklin to Washington, east on Washington to State, south on State to Madison, west on Madison to Franklin, south on Franklin to Monroe, east on Monroe to State, south on State to Jackson Boulevard, west on Jackson to a point west of Chicago river where disbandment will take place later this afternoon.

The men and women that took part came from nearly all trades and professions. The middle-aged and the gray-headed walked briskly along with strapping youngsters, all inspired by the general enthusiasm, the crashing sound of drum and horn and the waving of thousands of flags.

The formation of the marchers consisted of the following distribution:

Platoon of police, mounted trumpeters, a group representing the famous picture, "The Spirit of '76"; Grand Marshal E. C. Young and staff; Chicago court judges, Mayor William H. Thompson, members of the city council and various city departments, Grand Army of the Republic veterans, Spanish War Veterans and cadets from military training camps. This formed the advance of the parade, and then came the main divisions, as follows:

First Division—Commercial and industrial interests.

Second Division—Bankers, insurance men, railroaders, telephone employees, civil engineers, brokers, members and employees of the Board of Trade.

Third Division—Semi-military organizations, clubs, societies, etc.

Fourth Division—Business men north of Madison street, outside of the loop.

Fifth Division—Business men south of Madison street, outside of the loop.

Sixth Division—National Guard troops. The judges of the Municipal Court joined the circuit and Superior Court judges at the head of a lawyer's division with Edgar B. Tolman as chairman.

There was a gathering of firemen numbering about seven hundred, under Fire Marshal Thomas O'Connor's direction.

The drug clerks' organization swelled the ranks of the marchers and members who are here from all parts of the United States attending the national convention of their association adjourned in time to take their place in line.

"Safety First" played an important part in the arrangements for the parade. A large ambulance corps, in charge of Red Cross officials and nurses, was divided into groups and stationed approximately along each 1000 feet of the line of march. The city health department and the ambulance staffs of many hospitals co-operated in supplying the ambulance corps.

Deaf Can Sing By New System

Teaching Revolutionized by Ohio Woman

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 3.—Teaching a deaf person to sing, a feat which hitherto has been considered impossible, has been accomplished by Mrs. Christian Born, wife of a Columbus brewer, after weeks of experimenting with Magdalene Sattler, a seven-year-old Cleveland student at the State School for the Deaf here, according to the announcement.

Miss Helen Keller of New York, the eminent deaf and blind student in Columbus today for the purpose of testing out Mrs. Born's new process. Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, also is said to be interested in Mrs. Born's experiments. Mrs. Born's experiments, to prove her theory that the sense of hearing is not altogether essential in singing, have been conducted in secret for several months, but were not made public until now.

The new teaching method consists of facial expressions accompanied by piano tunes which the student cannot hear. To date the Cleveland girl has mastered more than an octave of notes, enough, scientists say, to prove that the new method is a success.

The dog was found in a smoke-filled room, brought to the street and resuscitated.

The fire was started by Mary and Peter Radonich, 5 and 4 years old, while playing with matches. The children with their mother, Mrs. Georgia Radonich, lived in one of the flats, while the other was occupied by Charles Sheldon. The building belonged to Frank Anderson, former assemblyman.
